

INTRODUCTION

Live nature is an environmental education project promoted by Environment Ministry of Galicia so that everyone can understand and enjoy the protected areas of Galicia.

Knowing our natural heritage, it's possible to make sustainable use of it, because we can understand the need to preserve for our pleasure and also for future generations.

These natural protected areas are ecosystems with an enormous ecological, scenic and educational, and conservation will depend on the disclosure, observation, study and interpretation of their values.

Live nature want people to discover, in a participatory and enjoyable, amazing and wonderful biodiversity of Galicia, through the interpretation of nature and its ethnographic data, a whole series of activities that will allow you to know the flora and fauna of these areas so privileged.

Two programmes have been designed to that end:
